The ICA is the oldest not-for-profit regional conservation center in the U.S. We repair and restore art and objects of cultural significance, and also personal treasures.

How does COSE help? COSE has helped us with our health care coverage and also by providing us with wonderful opportunities to raise our public profile. We were a featured business on “Lannigan and Malone” last year and in March we hosted an Open House in the Center for the COSE Arts Network.

Focus this year? May is Preservation Month and we’re constantly trying to educate the public about how critical it is to preserve our common heritage, especially when times are hard. ●
